

BAN ON SEARCH
OF MOTORISTS
IS NEW RULING*U. S. Attorney Burke Says
Agent Must Not Frisk People
for Any Kind of Liquor

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—In the most important and far-reaching liquor ruling of recent months, United States Attorney Joe Burke of San Francisco yesterday placed a ban on the promiscuous searching of motorists and individuals by federal agents.

The government attorney held that the persons of motorists were hereafter to be considered inviolate, and that enforcement officers must in no case search any person unless the suspected person has first been placed under arrest.

The decision means that scores of automobiles that have been seized during raids on popular resorts and in individual cases, when one or more of the occupants of the machines were found carrying a flask, will immediately be returned to their owners.

Burke's order, which was at once communicated to all local enforcement officials and agents, was made after a careful study of the legal points involved. Hereafter dry agents have been admonished to seize every automobile or vehicle of any kind when liquor could be found in the possession of any of the occupants of the machine or vehicle.

The new ruling will have no effect on the general practice of searching automobiles for liquor. It has the effect, however, of making the automobile safe from seizure if the transporter of the liquor has the foresight to carry his liquor in his pocket or on his person.

Hereafter the dry agents can arrest the person thus carrying liquor; they must have reason to believe him guilty of violating the liquor law, and must formally place him under arrest, after which they may search him. However, as federal agents are held accountable for false arrests and their treatment of suspected persons, local prohibition officials pointed out, agents would be instructed to be sure of their ground before arresting occupants of automobiles.

BANKS CAN GIVE AID TO BETTER READING

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 18.—The part that banks can play in bringing attention to their customers the desirability, pleasure, and profit to be gained by reading good books, is shown in an article by J. "A list of books on national and international affairs could be placed in the pay book of the business man," said Mr. Puelicher. "A list of books concerning modern accountancy, business law and practice could be given out with the accountant's pass book, while a list on composition and letter writing might be handed the stenographer. At the savings window, lists of books on literature could be distributed and lists of miscellaneous books might be enclosed with the monthly statement."

DIAMONDFIELD
BEING WATCHED
BY OPERATORS*Preliminary Work at Black
Butte Has Been Completed, Development Starts

Surface work has been completed at the Black Butte, in the Diamondfield section of the district, which recently was optioned by Guy Millard, one of the early-day mining men of the district who returned here recently from Boston, where he had been for several years. The machinery was in bad condition and had to be reassembled and repaired. The shaft has been put in good condition and a station has been cut so that everything is in readiness for starting work on the crosscut to the vein, which will be driven an estimated 275 feet to cut the vein at a depth of 165 feet.

The crosscut will be driven to cut the Black Butte vein south of any of the early-day work. The vein, in which the great Melrose strike was opened, was lost at a fault south of the strike, and Millard worked for three years to find the vein beyond the fault. Finally, he says, Albert Burch, formerly general manager for the Consolidated, gave him new ideas for his work, and, following the advice of Burch, he found at the surface the lost part of the famous ledge, one of the most productive in the district. Now Millard will explore the vein at depth and mining men familiar with the Diamondfield section say he should meet with some degree of success and may find ore similar to the bonanza bodies of years ago.

No doubt exists that the faulted segment of the vein has been found. In his work years ago Millard crosscut west on the 100-foot level of a lease shaft, thinking the fault action had thrown the vein in this direction. Not finding the vein in the west, he drove east, but stopped work because of fear of apex trouble. Then, in prospecting on the surface, he found the object of his long search. Mining men point out that there is no apparent reason why ore should not be found south of this fault and as rich as was mined to the north.

PROHIBITION BOOMING POCKET TRADE FLASKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—If the Christmas run fleet reported to be bound for New York from the Bahamas succeeds in running the blockade of the dry navy, it should find New Yorkers amply supplied with reeppies for toting the forbidden liquor.

Several manufacturers declared today that the demand for flasks had tripled since the advent of prohibition. Shop windows with their Christmas decorations feature clandestine drinking vessels which in "wet" days brought a shudder from society.

Stores are selling thousands of flasks—large ones for roomy coat pockets and small ones gracefully curved for the hip; expensive containers of silver and gold and cheaper ones covered with imitation leather.

Flasks are not the only drinking apparatus on display. Shown in abundance are hollow canes, decanters, glasses never blown for milk, and elaborate cocktail shakers.

NEW RAILROAD RATES ON NEVADA NORTHERN

The Nevada Northern railway company has worked out a new list of freight rates on ores ranging in value from $15 to $300 per ton to Utah smelters which will become operative on January 20. These rates are in interstate in nature and were the result of volunteer action on the part of the railroad. Last July the Nevada public service commission ordered a general reduction in freight rates of ten per cent, so the new ore rates effective January 20 will constitute a material reduction from what the rates on ores were something over six months ago.

Owing to the length of the table it will not be possible to publish it today, but will appear later in an issue of the papers. As an illustration of the reduction made $20 ore from Kimberly and Ruth is reduced from $5.63 to $4.50; from Lane City from $4.48 to $4.00; from East Ely and McGill, $4.28 to $3.50; from Cherry Creek, $4.28 to $3.20.

THIRD SHIFT PUT ON AT DEEP MINES SHAFT

Word from Goldfield is, in effect, that the third shift of miners went on at the Deep Mines company's shaft Tuesday morning. The work is to be rushed with all possible speed, important one that the stockholders may be assured that the this announcement follows the stock is not to be assessed again. This announcement is being sent out by an official of the company to stockholders and is quite as important to them as the information that the shaft has gone down in 75 feet of ore, giving assays of from $6 to $8 a ton. According to the statement made, the shaft from the 1125-foot level to the 1200-foot level went all the way in this low grade ore. The object of sinking the Deep Mines shaft was to explore the lower levels from the 2500-foot level of the Deep Mines shaft, not to much with the expectation of opening into bodies of high grade ore such as made Goldfield famous, but to get into large bodies of low grade milling ore. That is the quality of ore that has made the big mines of the country and paid the biggest returns to stockholders.
